It is no surprise that the issue of our readiness for Christ's Coming is again a focus of the Gospel on this Thirty-third Sunday in Ordinary Time, as Advent is imminent (two weeks away). Advent is often perceived as getting prepared for the birth of Christ at Christmas, but it is equally a time when we should be concentrating on preparing for Christ's Coming.

Last week our First Reading was from the Book of Wisdom, and Proverbs is in part an extension of that seeking truth and wisdom. It is in fact an example of the Biblical wisdom tradition as it raises questions of values, moral behavior, the meaning of life, and what is proper conduct. God acquired wisdom before anything else. Seeking truth and wisdom might also be defined as the essence of human life.

The First Reading from Proverbs deals with a description of a virtuous woman. Often people focus on the general aspects of this description rather than the specifics that are included within it. Included is the statement that “…her value is far beyond pearls,” as well as “She reaches out her hands to the poor and extends her arms to the needy.” This second statement is in effect a stewardship statement and one that we all need to take to heart. In fact, this is applicable to our entire parish community. Our Holy Father Pope Francis stated something quite similar when he said, “Each individual Christian and every community is called to be an instrument of God for the liberation and promotion of the poor, and for enabling them to be fully a part of society. This demands that we be docile and attentive to the cry of the poor and to come to their aid.”

The focus of St. Paul’s message to the Thessalonians, from which our Second Reading comes, is most definitely about our readiness for Christ’s Coming. Paul points out that we are “children of the light and children of the day,” not “of the night or of darkness.”

The Second Reading closes with an exhortation from Paul “…let us not sleep as the rest do, but let us stay alert and sober.” You may recall Paul used the word “sleep” to describe death at another point in this letter. However, spiritually we need to be “awake and sober.” For Paul sleep implies that as Christians and disciples of Christ, we need to be different. Sleep for Paul means ignorance, insensibility, and inactivity. Being awake spiritually is part of being a good steward, of being alive and active and participating in the life of the Church, living out Jesus’ call.

Of course, the heart of our Scriptural Word this week is found in the Gospel Reading from St. Matthew. Again Jesus utilizes a parable to teach us what He means, and this particular parable, The Parable of the Talents, is as strong a teaching of stewardship as Jesus ever offered. The basic story is of a master who departs on a long trip and he entrusts his servants with certain talents, not all equal, but all of equal importance. The word “talent” certainly gets our attention because of our traditional stewardship identification of time, talent, and treasure. However, in this case it is strictly about treasure. The Hebrew term for “talent” was kikkār, meaning a round gold or silver disk, or disk-shaped loaf. In the Greek language the word comes from tālanton, a large monetary measurement equal to 6,000 drachmas or denarii, the Greek and Roman silver coins.

Of the three servants two take the money they are given and increase its value in the master’s absence, but the third chooses not to risk it and merely preserves it. To both of those who returned it to the master with increase, the master says, “Well done, good and faithful servant.” That is not, however, his response to the third servant. It should be obvious to us that the master is God, and we are the servants. Everything we have comes from God, gifts from God. The stewardship question is “What do we do with the gifts God gives us?” Do we use them, share them, increase them, and return them to the Lord, or do we merely, as the third servant did: “I went off and buried your talent in the ground. Here it is back.” God wants more from us than a return of our original gifts. He wants a “return with increase.” To accomplish that we need to work at it and we need to practice stewardship as a way of life.

Thanksgiving Day - November 23

When you gather with family and friends this Thanksgiving holiday, remember to give thanks to God for all of the many blessings you have received. In sharing our abundance, it is most fitting to remember those who do not have the basic necessities of life. Consider using this prayer at the table:

> Lord, we thank you for the goodness of your people and for the spirit of justice that fills this nation. We thank you for the beauty and fullness of the land and the challenge of the cities. We thank you for our work and our rest, for one another, and for our homes.

> We thank you, Lord: (pause to add your own prayers of thanksgiving.)

> For all that we have spoken and for all that we keep in our hearts, accept our thanksgiving on this day.

> We pray and give thanks through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

November 22 - According to legend, Saint Cecilia († 3rd c.) was beheaded because she would not forswear her vow of virginity and would not make sacrifices to the gods. Her association with music is most likely related to a line from her Passio (an account of her holy “passion,” her martyrdom), where she is said to have sung “in her heart to Christ” as the musicians played at her wedding. Upon its foundation in 1584, the Academy of Music in Rome declared her the patron saint of musicians. St. Cecilia’s popularity grew so much that several hymns were written in her honor, and her life is referenced in Chaucer’s The Canterbury Tales. Patronage: musicians; singers; poets

November 23 - Saint Clement I († c.100) was pope during a rather tumultuous time, when the early Christian communities were experiencing growing pains. He is most remembered for a letter referred to as 1 Clement, which was written to the Christian community at Corinth. His letter addressed division within the community, urging its members to live in charity and unity. According to legend, Clement was martyred by being tied to an anchor and thrown from a boat into the Black Sea. Patronage: boatmen; marble workers; mariners; sailors; stonecutters

The most famous of Irish monks, Saint Columban was born around 525-530. Well educated and desiring to be a “pilgrim of God,” Columban traveled to France and founded several well-disciplined monasteries as centers of religion and culture. Because of difficulties he decided to return to Ireland. A shipwreck directed him towards Rome and to the founding of his final monastery, at Bobbio in Italy. The aged Abbot died in 615.

Miguel Pro was born in Guadalupe, Mexico, in 1891. The Mexican government began a major persecution of the Church in 1911. Fr. Pro completed his studies in Belgium and was ordained a Jesuit in 1926. He returned to Mexico and performed his ministry heroically until November 23, 1927. He was caught and condemned for being a Catholic priest. Fr. Miguel Pro ended his life facing the firing squad with his arms outstretched until he became a living cross. He called out the words, Viva Cristo Rey! as his body was wracked with a hail of bullets. He was proclaimed “blessed” by Pope John Paul II on September 25, 1988.

November 24 - Saint Andrew Dung-Lac (1785-1839), a Vietnamese priest, is one of 117 martyrs canonized in 1988 who died trying to establish and spread the Catholic faith in Vietnam. This effort, which began in 1533 and continued well into the nineteenth century, was fraught with periods of persecution. Although St. Andrew was born into a Buddhist family, he was raised Catholic. His priestly ministry involved evangelization, parish catechesis, and service to the persecuted. Living under a particularly oppressive edict, St. Andrew was killed because he would not renounce his Christian apostates and succumb to idolatrous ritual.

November 25 - Saint Catherine of Alexandria (287-385), lived in Alexandria, Egypt, during the reign of the Roman emperor Maxentius. Legend says that Catherine bravely confronted the emperor about his pagan beliefs. Maxentius gathered fifty pagan philosophers and challenged her to a debate. Her arguments were so convincing that many of the philosophers converted to Christianity. He then threatened to kill her unless she renounced her faith and married him. She refused and was condemned to death on a spiked wheel, but the wheel fell apart when she touched it. She was then beheaded, and legend says that angels carried her to Mount Sinai. She has been venerated since the tenth century. Patronage: philosophers; preachers; librarians; young unmarried women
