

2017 Catholic Sharing Appeal Begins

The Catholic Sharing Appeal, or the CSA, is an annual appeal that offers funds to a variety of ministries, services and programs throughout our diocese, as well as the needs of our parish. The theme of this year's appeal, Give Your Hands to Serve and your Hearts to Love, was inspired by Saint Teresa of Calcutta. This week you will be receiving a mailing that will give you more information on this year's case for support. Please take time to review the materials. After prayer and discussion with your family, please join me by making a commitment to the Catholic Sharing Appeal.

The Month of Our Lady

the end of the 13th century. In this way, the Church was able to Christianize the secular feasts which were wont to take place at that time. In the 16th century, books appeared and fostered this devotion.

The practice became especially popular among the members of the Jesuit Order—by 1700 it took hold among their students at the Roman College and a bit later it was publicly practiced in the Gesu Church in Rome. From there it spread to the whole Church.

The practice was granted a partial indulgence by Pius VII in 1815 and a plenary indulgence by Pius IX in 1859. With the complete revision of indulgences in 1966 and the decreased emphasis on specific indulgences, it no longer carries an indulgence; however it certainly falls within the category of the First General Grant of Indulgences. (A partial indulgence is granted to the faithful who, in the performance of their duties and in bearing the trials of life, raise their mind with humble confidence to God, adding—even if only mentally—some pious invocation.

The month of May is the “month which the piety of the faithful has especially dedicated to Our Blessed Lady,” and it is the occasion for a “moving tribute of faith and love which Catholics in every part of the world [pay] to the Queen of Heaven. During this month Christians, both in church and in the privacy of the home, offer up to Mary from their hearts an especially fervent and loving homage of prayer and veneration. In this month, too, the benefits of God’s mercy come down to us from her throne in greater abundance” (Paul VI: Encyclical on the Month of May, no. 1).

This Christian custom of dedicating the month of May to the Blessed Virgin arose at

Christian Awareness

By Alex J. Nagem

Me: Good morning dear. I love you, and oh, I'm sorry.

Lori: What are you sorry for (with laughter)?

Me: The day is still young. That is a just in case sorry.

Lori: Just in case of what?

Me: Just in case I do something wrong or upset you today and forget to say I am sorry right away. Just wanting to have one saved.

Lori: Do you plan on doing something wrong today?

Me: No, but, you never know what I might do or say when frustrated, in a hurry, or just being absent minded.

Lori: Ok, well, just in case you do something wrong, you are forgiven. I love you too.

Wouldn't the day be better knowing that we will be forgiven for something we have done wrong and that we are still loved by the person we have hurt or upset? The conversation above is based more on fact than fiction. I have begun some days telling my wife that I am sorry as a just in case. Not that I plan on doing something wrong, but there are days when I surprise myself by verbalizing my thoughts and then asking myself why I said that. I can't erase the words spoken as easily as I can erase the thoughts from my mind. Then I go through a period of reconciliation and penance, which again, lasts longer in my mind than in Lori's. I do believe she does this purposely. These thoughts verbalized were more frequent in the early days of our marriage than today. The longer we are together the fewer mistakes we make. We have become comfortable knowing each other's personalities, sorrows, and joys. We can talk to each other without fear of criticism or embarrassment. Not that we live in a home with a perfect marriage, but we have come to understand that apologizing is much easier to handle than a continued argument. No longer do we prolong a disagreement to allow it to escalate into an argument. We have grown to know each other, or maybe we have grown too tired to fight in our graying years, (said humorously).

I don't think our relationship would have lasted 30 plus years if we neglected to say to each other that we are sorry for something done wrong and forgiveness freely given. The buildup of neglect would be too much for the marriage to handle. I don't believe a relationship can last when one side feels they are always right or neglects the feelings of their partner. We have made a commitment to each other with the Vows of Marriage. Did I fail to mention this is also a Sacrament? I apologize if I didn't. As a Sacrament, Christ has freely entered into our Catholic marriage. We have freely given ourselves to each other, and freely wanted Christ in our lives. But with this freedom we also have commitment, which limits one's freedom. As Pope John Paul II once said, "Limitation of one's freedom might seem to be something negative and unpleasant, but love makes it a positive, joyful and creative thing. Freedom exists for the sake of love." Since Lori and I love each other, and she reminds me of this each day, (again, said hu-morously) we do understand that there will be times when one of us will say we are sorry and the other offering forgiveness. One of our greatest freedoms we have is the choice to forgive. If we study the life of Jesus Christ, we come to know his many acts of forgiveness. The ultimate forgiveness is shown with his words on the cross, "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they do," Luke 23:34. During all his suffering, Jesus asks His Father to forgive. Does it take much for any of us to say we are sorry and ask for forgiveness in comparison? After Christ rose from his state death, he established the Sacrament of Reconciliation for the forgiveness of sins with his Apostles. "He breathed on them and said, "Receive the Holy Spirit. If you forgive anyone his sins, they are forgiven. If you withhold forgiveness from anyone, it is withheld," John 20:22. Without confession, without saying we are sorry to God for something we have done wrong (sins), the meaning of the Easter season will be lost along with the colored eggs not found in the tall grass. With confession, we are asking for forgiveness to meet the risen Christ. We can then tell others of the forgiveness of sins and Christ's love for us all. We can then truly celebrate the risen Christ with our Alleluias each coming day.

I Am Sorry

"In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, in accordance with the riches of God's grace," Ephesians 1:7.

You are remembered in my prayers, as I hope to be remembered in yours.
